For all the right connections!

Filter Out All The Interference With Murr Elektronik Filters From DSG.

In the vicinity of electronics and control systems, there is often high-powered equipment and cabling that can affect electronic circuits and lead to faulty operations and disruption of product lines. Bidirectional electromagnetic compatibility (EMC) filters from Murr Elektronik can be installed to calm both incoming and outgoing interference without impairing the supply. This means that equipment runs smoother and with less down time – saving you both time and money.

Contact DSG today and find out about the broad selection of EMC filters that can eliminate corruption of electronic signals.
